Gainful Employment Disclosure for Certificate Program

Name of Program: Network Centric Systems (Certificate from Systems Engineering)

Stand Alone: Yes Degree Dependent: Yes

Program Description: Recent advances in information technology and the increased level of interconnectivity that society has achieved through internet and broadband communication technology created systems known as network centric systems. Network centric systems comprise a diverse category of large and complex systems whose preprimary purpose is providing network-type services. There are frequently collaborative systems that are built on the partially voluntary and uncontrolled interaction of complex elements. The graduate certificate in Network Centric Systems allows practicing engineers to develop the necessary skills for the design and operation of network centric systems. The graduate courses selected for the program address the intersection between network engineering and systems engineering and architecting.
